GOUNOD'S First Earnings.

The way Gounod earned the first money by his compositions is related by the French Lionnet in their "Memoirs." They met him at the house of Eschneider in 1853. At that date he had already produced his "Sappho," but at his own expense. He asked the Lionnet, who were then in vogue in the Paris salons, to sing some of his melodies. To encourage them he sat down to the piano and sang a few of them himself. They admired them greatly. "Yes," he said, "everybody admires them, everybody compliments me on them, but no publisher will bring them out. They are said to be too difficult for the public. By the way, I have just composed a song to the words of Beranger entitled 'Mon habit.' I consider it one of my best compositions, and I think it would suit you well." Thereupon he sang it. Anatole Lionnet promised to sing it the next evening and did so. He then spoke to the publisher about it, but the same objection was made, it is charming, no doubt, said the publisher, "but it will not sell. However, if M. Lionnet will undertake to sing it for a few nights I will consent to publish it and give Gounod 100 francs for it." Gounod joyfully accepted the modest sum; it was the first he had earned.—London Globe.

Four Bits and No Kiss.

The following account of a ceremony which was performed in Tucker county, W. Va., is worth relating and will serve to show how solemn an affair the question of matrimony is considered to be in the infant proteges of the Old Dominion. "Do you take this woman, whose hand you're a-squeezin', to be your lawful wife in flush times and skim?" "I reckon that's about the size of it, squib." "Do you take this man you've jined flats with to be your pard through thick and thin?" "Well, you're about right for once, old man." "All right, then. Kiss in court, an I reckon you're married about as tight as the law can jine you. I guess four bits will do, Bill, if I don't have to kiss the bride."—Cor. Washington News.

She Had to Give a Reason.

The other day I was told of a little girl who attended a distribution of prizes given by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. She had won, you must know, a book as a reward for writing the best essay on the subject given, and with the other successful children, was undergoing a viva voce examination. "Well, my dear," said the gentleman who had given away the prizes, "can you tell me why it is cruel to dock horses' tails and trim dogs' ears?" "Because," answered the little girl, "what God had joined together let no man put asunder."—Leisure Hour.

Miss Knowles' Victory.

Miss Ella Knowles, who missed by a few votes being elected attorney general of Montana, was afterward appointed assistant attorney general. A few weeks ago she was sent to Washington on an important business relating to Montana school lands, which was pending in the interior department. About $200,000 was involved in this litigation. Miss Knowles had to make a presentation of the state's claim before six heads of law divisions. Finally she got it before First Assistant Sims and secured a decision in favor of her state.

CATS CAUSE DIVORCE.

An Accumulation of Felines Separate a Couple Married Forty Years. Cats and clairvoyance are the reasons given by Simon Fritz of 46 Goffe street, New Haven, for separating from his wife. The couple were married in Iowa about 40 years ago. Ten years ago Mrs. Fritz developed a mania for cats. She gathered in and cared for every stray feline she could find. Mr. Fritz tried to escape from them by moving to this city, but she brought a crate of cats with the furniture.

Mr. Fritz is a woodworker. He set up a repairing shop on Winter street, and they lived in the building until the constantly increasing number of cats around the house caused the neighbors to complain, and they moved to Goffe street. Mr. Fritz also has some inventions he is trying to perfect, but the nightly uproar by the cats would allow him to get a night's rest, and he was unable to work effectively.

Then Mrs. Fritz became a trances medium, and her household was neglected. Her household work to devote into the mysteries of the past, present and future. She attracted attention by asserting that Anna Orr, then missing from Bridgeport, was dead in a well. The girl's body has since been found in a well in Fairfield.

Mr. Fritz could stand the fortune telling, but he couldn't stand the cats, and he finally declared that his wife's pets must all go. Mrs. Fritz demurred, but her husband was firm. The cats went, and so did the woman. Now Mr. Fritz declares he will apply for a divorce.—New Haven Cor. New York Press.

An Old Landmark to Go.

Old Fort Crawford, once one of the most important military posts in Colorado, will soon be destroyed. The buildings are advertised for sale and in a few weeks will be razed. It was in the neighborhood of this military establishment that the Utes, 20 years ago, committed some of their bloodiest crimes. Chief Ouray, "the friend of the white man," lived within a stone's throw of the crumbling barracks, and also within sight was the home of Colorado, the renegade chief. Since their day the valley has been settled by peaceful farmers and is now one of the happiest and most prosperous spots in the land.—Exchange.

WHY OUR DOLLAR IS WORTH MORE IN MEXICO THAN A MEXICAN DOLLAR.

A Mexican dollar has more silver in it than has a dollar of United States money, and yet, even in Mexico, United States silver dollars command a premium over Mexican dollars. This fact has been frequently urged as an argument against free coinage, for the alleged reason that it shows that the silver currency of the United States derives its value from being interchangeable with gold, while Mexican money depends for its value upon the commercial price of the silver bullion of which it is composed.

The specious conclusion drawn may be fairly stated as follows: In nations having a bimetallic currency the silver money gets its value from being interchangeable with gold, while in others whose currency basis is silver the silver money circulates only at its bullion value. Is this proposition true? While in Mexico our silver money is at a premium over Mexican money, in India silver rupees, weight for weight with our silver dollar, are worth six and a fourth cents more. And yet India is on a silver basis. There is manifestly a contradiction of the theory here.

In order to ascertain the relative value of the currency of two nations the purchasing power of the money of each must be compared with the commodities which are interchanged between them. There is no international medium of exchange except commodities. The value of a foreign gold piece in a country is its bullion value as a commodity, and bears no essential relation to the value borne by it in the country in which it is a legal tender, unless it can be easily returned to that country in exchange for commodities. It is this fact that makes American money more valuable in Mexico than their own coins. If Mexico, however, were a country at the antipodes and there was little or no international trade with us it would be absurd to think that an American dollar would be as valuable in that country as a coin of its own legal tender money. Mexico, however, being so intimately associated in business relations with the United States, our national dollar has kept its American legal tender value there because it is easily interchangeable back to this country for our exports, and will buy more of such than the Mexican dollar.

It can readily be seen that if there was any considerable quantity of American money in Mexico, and there is, in the international trade between the two countries there would be created a demand for it; more especially as it will buy more of American goods than Mexican money, and it would thus take a premium over the currency of that country accordingly.

If there was any quantity of Chinese money, for example, in this country, it not being a legal tender here, it would take a value relative to the amount of tea it would exchange for when sent to China, and independent of the commercial value of the metal out of which it might be made. But if it was not considered at all with regard to international trade it would possess only its bullion value.

The question arises, why is the relative value of a silver dollar, as compared to commodities, greater in the United States than a dollar of the same size in Mexico? The answer is not difficult, and yet many fail to grasp it. The value of a dollar, or of a legal tender unit of exchange, is the ratio between the whole number of such units in circulation and the whole demand made upon money in that country. Unless there be exactly the same relative quantity of money in circulation in any two given countries as compared to the demand made upon money in each, there will be observed a difference in their relative values as compared to the commodities which are interchanged.

THE UNEMPLOYED OF BOSTON.

There are said to be 40,000 idle men in Boston, says the San Francisco Examiner, and the city government is exerting itself to diminish the distress. Mayor Matthews has placed all the unexpended balances of the municipal appropriations at the service of the unemployed. He has adopted the policy of completing at once every piece of work which can be done at one time as well as at another, but which would not have been done until next year if circumstances had been different. An unusually large force is at work in the parks, breaking land and clearing. New water mains are being laid, old buildings are being repaired and new ones built. Odd jobs are being searched out in every direction. All the funds of appropriations are being utilized.

In all about 500 or 600 extra men have found employment in this way. This relieves the situation to some extent, although it leaves the bulk of the distress untouched. The great difficulty is the lack of money, and of legal authority to raise more. That is something that is always felt at such a crisis as this. If our governments, national, State and local, had power to adopt radical instead of palliative measures of relief in times of distress all suffering could be prevented, not only without loss to the community, but with a substantial and permanent gain.

A gunpowder explosion at Waltham, Abbey, near London, killed one and fatally wounded nine other persons.

RAISING RELIEF FUNDS.

Chicago's Official Machinery at Last in Motion.

THE SCHEDULES COMPLETED.

A Bold Robbery Committed at the Chicago Postoffice.

RELIEF FOR THE DISTRESSED.

Funds Being Raised in Chicago for the Hungry.

CHICAGO, December 13.—The official machinery for relieving the destitution here has at last been set in motion. Alderman Madden, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the City Council, is designated by Mayor Swift to represent the city in the efforts to raise funds.

This morning Chairman Madden sent letters to each of the churches of the city, all church societies, all public bodies, such as the County Board, the Park Board, relief associations and other assemblages of like character, asking that between now and next Monday they collect all the money they can and make arrangements for continuing collections throughout the winter. He also requested that they each appoint one delegate to attend a mass meeting of all these assemblages next Monday afternoon, prepared to turn over to the Treasurer of the committee, who will be the City Controller, all money collected, and to give to the other delegates their ideas and plans for other collections.

It is believed that the amount of money so collected will aggregate at least $500,000, and that among all the plans that will be suggested for the collection of money some one will be found to meet the emergency.

In the meantime Mr. Madden and his committee will discuss from every standpoint the question of distribution or relief so that they may be able at the mass meeting to inform the delegates just what it is intended to do with the money they will send in. In the interim between now and this great mass meeting, Mr. Madden thinks that enough money will be forthcoming to care for the immediate needs of the sufferers.

The delegates to the American Federation of Labor now in session here were to be banqueted by the city and $1,000 was appropriated for the purpose, but so widespread is the suffering that the delegates will decline the expensive entertainment and ask that the money be expended to relieve the distress.

Various plans to get funds for the poor are under way. Theatrical benefits are to be given this week by Jefferson, Robeson and other companies now here. Subscription papers are being circulated among the various business establishments asking those who are employed to subscribe a small sum weekly toward the general relief fund. No more than ten cents or a quarter of a dollar a week is expected from each subscriber. One man in each establishment is delegated to look after the subscriptions. A considerable sum will certainly be realized in this way.

THE TARIFF BILL.

Schedules Completed and the Bill Will be Submitted This Week.

WASHINGTON, December 13.—The schedules of the tariff bill have been completed by the Ways and Means committee, and a portion of the afternoon was devoted to the administrative features of the bill. Republicans think the bill will not be submitted before Saturday next, while the Democrats expect to submit it to-morrow or next day.

There is no certainty of a caucus of House Democrats on the tariff bill, as some Democrats most anxious for changes in the bill are opposed to a caucus. Among the members who signed the call for a caucus were Morgan, Cockrell, Richardson, Paschal, Champ, Clark of Missouri, Smith of Arizona, Kye, Capshart, Stockdale, Alderson of Washington, Culberson, Hooker, Bell, Cooper, Gorman, Hayes, Hutchison, Stone.

No change was made in the sugar schedule. The committee changed the malt schedule again, increasing it from 25 to 30 per cent.

The duty on cut diamonds has been reduced from 15 per cent. in the first bill to the present rate, 10 per cent.

About $7,000 Stolen.

CHICAGO, December 13.—The boldest robbery reported in Chicago in a year was committed at the Postoffice between 7 and 8 o'clock this evening. At that hour an unknown man, by giving the proper door-knocks, gained admission to the cashier's office in the wholesale stamp department in the northeast corner of the building, and bagged A. S. Robertson, the cashier, seized a lot of money lying in packages on the table, made his way out through a side window and escaped. The amount of cash taken is estimated at $7,000, though it may be $10,000. The exact amount cannot be known until the books are checked.

Chauncey M. DePew Delivers Himself.

LONDON, December 13.—The Financial Times publishes an interview with Chauncey M. DePew, who is quoted as saying: "President Cleveland was right and silver wrong. The tariff need not cause any fear in regard to American railroads; they will get along all right."

Explaining the recent crisis, DePew said: "Business before the panic of 1893 was being conducted in the most conservative way within living memory, and the panic was due to the fact that for the first time in thirty years a President was elected with a free trade policy and a possible majority of both Houses. The majority which put Cleveland in was composed of all the heterogeneous elements of the populace wanting to change the existing order of things."

The Gould $40,000 Suit.

New York, December 13.—The Herald says: Mrs. Zella Nicolaus has left New York and she says she is glad to leave. She has abandoned the prosecution of her suit against George Gould to recover $40,000, the amount of a check which she claimed he had taken from her. Mrs. Nicolaus refused to tell what motive had prompted her in her abandonment of the lawsuit. She would say only that the matter had been "arranged" and that the arrangement was satisfactory to her.

The counsel for Mrs. Zella Nicolaus deny that she and her "guardian" sailed for Genoa yesterday, or that her suit against Gould is settled.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live butter than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adopting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative, effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being told, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

The Blues!

Away with them! Take Simmons Liver Regulator for that torpid liver has put your digestive powers out of gear. That's at the bottom of the blues, and when you take Simmons Liver Regulator you strike the root of the evil, and everything else that is wrong goes with it. No more Indigestion, Dyspepsia or Biliousness. That sounds bright enough, and is true.
